Agenda highlights

Keynote session

Featuring senior representatives from across alternative assets. The keynote speakers will consider the themes that unify alternative assets and the extent to which investors differentiate between asset classes.

Meet a mentor

This popular session brings together senior men and women in different roles within private markets to offer practical career advice to women of all levels. This is a unique opportunity to build your network and advance your career.

Getting on the deal team

Hear from a panel of deal partners discussing the skills required for a place on the deal team. With so few women on deal teams, this session will provide practical insights for you to take back to the office.

Take part in the discussion

Connect with the industry and share your ideas through interactive networking sessions, including a themed networking lunch, cocktail reception and think tanks. Plus make use of our networking app to view the attendee list, message attendees and arrange meetings with your peers.

Think-tanks

This closed-door exchange will create an environment where you can speak openly about issues impacting your role and the asset class more generally. There will be four invitation only sessions focused on private debt, real estate infrastructure and private equity.

State of play

This session will discuss where there are opportunities and potential dangers within the asset class. With political uncertainty, trade wars and signs that we are nearing the end of an economic cycle, there is a lot to discuss.

Investor viewpoint

Will be front and centre throughout the event with several sessions focused on their views on diversity, in addition to their appetite for private markets.

It is an excellent forum for women of all levels of seniority to get to know each other, exchange views and hopefully to form professional relationships that carry over into our working lives going forward.

An interesting and highly engaging event that tackles the real issues and offers pragmatic solutions. Charismatic speakers and a great networking opportunity.
