The Fitch Difference

Open People, Open Approach

Our analysts are accessible and readily discuss the rationale behind our rating methodologies and credit opinions. We extend our openness to investors, regulators, policy makers and other market participants and are uniquely responsive in scheduling meetings and completing assessments in a timely manner.

Expertise through Experience

What distinguishes Fitch Ratings is broad and deep sector credentials that have been developed and honed by many years of industry and analytical experience. Each and every one of our credit opinions is backed by a collaborative team of independent market specialists, working across sectors and regions to cover the world's capital markets.

Global Perspective, Local Insight

Our ratings approach is globally consistent while our analysts are regionally and locally focused. With an analytical presence in over 30 countries, our unique perspective is informed by our knowledge of local economies, their dynamics and emerging trends and the impact they may have on the global markets.
