The race to a net-zero real estate portfolio

23 June London 2:00pm | New York 9:00am | Hong Kong 9:00pm

Fund managers with poor ESG performance have the risk of their assets being stranded with reduced values and diminished attractiveness to institutional capital.

Institutional investors' demands on climate action is creating urgency for fund managers to present and execute credible strategies in achieving net-zero carbon portfolios.

In this PERE Deep Dive, we bring you a panel of experts to discuss how to credibly achieve net-zero in private real estate portfolios.

The panel will explore questions such as:

- » How to measure the carbon footprint from your existing portfolio?
- » What are the main barriers being encountered on the net-zero pathway?
- » Data strategy: Understand how do to efficiently handle the collection, analysis and monitoring of the data from buildings that leads to better, greener decision making?
- » How to reduce your energy usage on building via technology?
- » What are the leading frameworks which funds can use to build a strategy around?
- » What is the role of carbon offsets as part of net-zero strategy?
- » What are the extra capex requirements in making buildings green?
- » How can funds plan a cost-efficient transition at the portfolio-level?
