PERE

America Forum
New York 2021

9:40 am Keynote interview

10:00 am Seizing the moment: Spotlight on distressed and opportunistic investing
In the first quarter of 2021, over one third of the $363.8 billion existing dry powder in the US was sitting in either opportunistic or distressed funds. With global forbearance coming to an end, is this a once in a century opportunity for distressed funds and their backers? How are the next 18 months going to play out?

10:40 am LP Panel: ESG: What prevents managers from getting in front of the investment committee?
Driving fund manager selection, investment decision and allocations more than ever, ESG remains at the top of the LP agenda. Panelists will get to the meat of the issue – who will - and won't - they put their capital with based on the principles of ESG? What metrics and measurements do they use and how do they analyse the data?

11:20 am Networking break

11:40 am Data Centers: Finding investment value in the midst of a gold rush
The demand for data centers across the US jumped a whopping 72% in 2021 with further expansion expected. This session will address the drivers behind this increase, where investors are deploying capital, where (if) value can still be found, the strength in M&A and operator activity, and the ongoing focus on sustainability.

12:20 pm Finding (even more) opportunities in industrial real estate
It is no surprise that the demand for industrial real estate held up through the pandemic with the robust support of E-commerce, among others. This session will address the rising trends in the industrial sector, investment solutions in a heated market, the race to meet consumer demands, and the increasing challenges that have occurred in the sector over the past 16 months.

1:00 pm Networking lunch

2:00 pm Life sciences real estate: 2022 investment outlook
Increasing FDA approvals, including the record-breaking COVID-19 vaccines, are among the factors creating a surge in funding for the life sciences sector. Who are the market-leading managers and how to tell a manager is merely on for the ride? What kind of operational expertise does a manager need to create value in this highly specialised field and where are the next big opportunities for LPs?

2:40 pm The future of offices: Is it still complicated?
It's official. Remote working is here to stay. But what does this mean for the office sector? This session will address if the need for offices has diminished, rethinking existing spaces, flexible and alternative office strategies, and emerging movements such as satellite workspaces.

3:20 pm Networking break

3:40 pm Looking beyond gateway markets
High prices in gateway markets are forcing some investors to look beyond cities like New York and San Francisco. And US investors aren't the only LPs pivoting to these regions. Speakers will discuss diversifying via Tier 2 cities, where to find higher yield, trending sectors outside key gateways, and strategies to implement in portfolio construction.

4:20 pm Fireside chat: How investors are diversifying their real estate portfolio
Find out where investor demand is focusing and how LPs are diversifying their portfolios within the private real estate asset class. From property sectors to geographic location, to investment strategies, this session will address where and how investor demand is concentrating.
