

PERE Europe

Featuring PERE Debt & Finance

Build a real estate strategy fit for the new economy

21-22 September 2021 | In-person conference

No.11 Cavendish Square, London, UK

Overview and event structure

The PERE Europe Forum is Europe's leading private real estate event. Now in its 16th year, the Forum has a proven track-record of bringing together leading European investors and fund managers.

As the real estate industry goes through one of the most dynamic periods in its history, the Forum will allow you to understand how the EMEA market is faring, how LP appetite is changing, where to find value in a competitive environment, and how to build a strategy that is fit for the new economy.

The conference will be taking place in-person and will present an excellent opportunity to network with peers after over a year of working from home. Plenary sessions will also be recorded and made available post-event for on-demand viewing for the PERE Passport global community.

Day one - Tuesday 21 September 2021

08:30 Registration and networking

08:50 PERE welcome

Adam Smallman, Director of Membership Programs, PEI Media

09:00 Welcome & chair's opening remarks

LP insights

9.10 Session 1: Institutional investor panel: constructing a long-term investment strategy suited for the new economy

As investors look out to a low interest rate, low growth environment for the foreseeable future and traditional investment sectors such as offices and retail, that have typically formed the biggest component of their portfolios, facing an uncertain future, we hear from some of Europe's leading LPs on how they are looking to adjust their allocations and fundamental investment approach to position themselves to hit return hurdles in the coming decade.

Andrea Orlandi Managing Director and Head of Real Estate Investments – Europe, CPPIB
Robert-Jan Foortse, Head of European Property Investments, APG Asset Management
Karim Habra, Head of Europe and Asia-Pacific, Ivanhoé Cambridge

10.00 Session 2: TBC

10.45 Networking break

11.15 Keynote: TBC

Deploying capital in the coming decade

11.45 Session 3: Hitting a moving target: building a core portfolio fit for the coming decade

The definition of what constitutes core investments is a now more than ever a moving target. As the traditional investment sectors such as offices and retail facing a shrinking demand outlook, in this session we will explore how fund managers are looking to create strategies that are aligned with long-term demand, consumer behaviour and demographics. We'll also discuss the challenges of deploying capital and repositioning portfolios with so much dry powder in the market chasing the same deals.

12.30 Lunch

Following lunch the event will split into two streams. The first stream will focus on equity investing, while the second is discussing the real estate debt and finance market.

Equity stream

Building a portfolio suited for the new economy

13.15 Session 4A: Industrial, logistics and last mile in Europe: how to future-proof your assets?

Logistics is at the cutting edge of technology. This brings benefits in efficiency but also makes the sector vulnerable to disruption from some of the most transformative innovations taking place such as the electric and autonomous vehicles revolution.

In this session we'll ask how logistics investors and operators can ensure their sheds are future proofed. We'll discuss which trends should concern logistics investors, how assets can be made smarter and greener, and what can be done to enhance the yield and value of assets right now.

14.00 Session 5A: Hotelization of the office: creating working spaces that attract the next generation of tenants

Offices were one of the most impacted assets during the pandemic. Going forward, the consensus is that aggregate office demand will fall as flexible working becomes the new norm, while there will be a 'flight to quality' for the very best assets. Adding further complexity, the next generation of tenants are also calling for flexible, shorter, and in some cases, turnover-based leases in buildings that are smart, sustainable and amenity-rich. A lot to balance if you want to own and operate offices.

In this session we explore the office market across Europe, how to operationalise new leasing models and build premium, best-in-class assets where employers and employees simply want to be.

15.15 Session 6A: Building a residential portfolio: exploring the outlook for the living space market across Europe

Capital is flowing into residential and its sub-asset classes of student housing, senior living, co-living and Build to Let. However, the supply of these opportunities is limited, entry requires taking on significant development risk, they are resource intensive, and carry a range of operational risks typically unfamiliar to real estate investors.

In this session we take a pan-European lens and discuss the art of building and operating a residential platform. We'll explore how to deploy at scale, what the common operational challenges are, how to find the right partners and foster in-house expertise, and discuss the approaches being taken to create a long-term, robust resi investment strategy.

Christina Ofschonka, Managing Director of Fund Management, AEW Europe

16.00 Session 7A: Breakout roundtables: accessing opportunities in the new frontiers of residential investment

- Affordable housing
- Senior living
- Build to let
- Student accommodation

Debt and Finance stream

Financing real estate for the next decade

13.15 Session 4B: Landscape of the European real estate debt & finance market

In this session we dive into the outlook for the real estate finance and debt market in Europe and look to understand how alternative and traditional lenders are refining their strategies.

The panel will touch on what can be expected with the end of government support schemes, where alternative lenders are seeing opportunities emerging and how to overcome challenges in underwriting alternative asset classes such as life sciences, data centres and residential, among other topical questions.

14.00 Session 5B: Outlook on banks' lending strategies and the impact on alternative lenders

Banks have historically set the market for the relatively new alternative lenders in terms of the scope of opportunities. In this session we look to analyse how banks' strategies are likely to evolve in the aftermath of the pandemic, what the likely impact of new regulations will be in banks' real estate activities, and what this all means for the alternative financing market.

Nicola Free, Managing Director, Head of Real Estate Finance EMEA, HSBC Bank

14.45 Networking break

15.15 Session 6B: Getting to grips with financing the repurposing of assets

As fund managers look to reconstruct their portfolios to fit the new economy and with so much capital held in retail and offices, we explore how financiers can best engage with projects converting obsolete assets to higher-value-use properties, discussing what the key risks to consider are when assessing repurposing deals and how much opportunity will emerge in the coming years.

16.00 Session 7B: Green & sustainable finance: how are real estate lenders moving the needle on social and environmental goals?

ESG has been brought to the forefront of issues as investors and managers alike look to move beyond a box ticking exercise. Here we explore the latest efforts by lenders to incorporate ESG considerations into their business practices and deals. We'll explore how sustainability-linked loans work currently and what they should be evolving to, the best way to integrate social goals, as well as debating how significant an impact the financing community can have in transforming the real estate market's environmental and social performance at scale.

Day two - Wednesday 22 September 2021

9.15 Welcome to day two & chair's opening remarks

Sustainability and impact in real estate

9.30 Session 8: How to get ahead in the race to achieving a net-zero real estate portfolio?

The pandemic has undoubtedly brought sustainability to the forefront of issues moving forward. Focusing on real estate's contribution to climate change mitigation, here we bring you a panel of leading funds and investors to discuss how to credibly achieve net-zero in private real estate portfolios.

The session will explore how to formulate a strategy that makes a net-zero commitment into a reality, what constitutes a genuine progressive effort, how to ensure your strategy is not just a PR front, and the risks associated with inaction on the valuation of assets.

Daniel McHugh, Chief Investment Officer, Aviva Investors Real Assets
Stephane Villemain, Vice President - Corporate Social Responsibility, Ivanhoé Cambridge
Roxana Isaiu, Chief Sustainability Officer, GRESB

10.15 Session 9: How can private real estate create a social impact?

Tackling the 'S' in ESG is one of the most difficult pieces of the puzzle when it comes to the sustainability agenda in real estate. Here we explore how leading funds can go about achieving social performance, what form their impact strategies are taking, what does 'good' look like and the wider role of private capital in creating solutions to Europe's affordable housing shortage, among other issues.

Pooja Patel, Principal, Stepstone
Adrian Ion, CFO, Therme Group

Investors are looking at niche sectors in the conquest to find attractive investment opportunities. Accessing these alternative sectors poses a range of operational challenges in requiring specialist expertise and/or partners to be executed effectively. Here, our speakers will discuss how to effectively take on operational risk, gain critical mass in alternative markets, and strike the optimal balance between operational excellence and the added cost incurred.

Brad Hyler, Managing Partner and Head of European Real Estate, Brookfield
Bill Page, Head of Real Estate Markets Research, Legal & General Investment Management

13.00 Session 11: Life sciences: how to best align to the end user and build a life sciences platform

The pandemic has propelled life sciences to the forefront of investors' attention, but even prior to covid-19 the sector was already gaining traction. The market is still relatively small and tricky to invest and operate in. The availability of built stock is limited, opportunities need to be carefully vetted, and properties must be located within research-hub ecosystems to make them viable. Our panel of experts to help you digest what a good opportunity in the sector looks like, how to meet the needs of its unique tenant base and how to shape a strategy in building a life sciences platform.

Abigail Shapiro, Senior Vice President, European Office, Retail & Life Sciences, Oxford Properties

Charles Walford, Senior Development Director and Head of Life Sciences, Stanhope
