The Responsible Investment Forum: Europe is the longest-running private equity forum focused on bringing together fund managers, institutional investors, and expert advisors to discuss ESG issues across alternative asset classes. Returning to London on 16-17 November, it will once again co-hosted with the PRI.

The best conference I've attended in a very long time. Great content and speakers and very enthusiastic attendees make the two days well worthwhile.

Head of Client Development
Ogier

Agenda highlights:

How should boards engage with portfolio companies on ESG

- » Diversity, equity & inclusion: working with portfolio companies to drive positive change
- » How to work with the portfolio on issues that the fund itself is still struggling to address internally
- » Engaging management teams in businesses with less obvious ESG issues
- » Case studies of successfully changing portfolio companies

Featuring representatives from Bain & Company, Abris Capital Partners, Travers Smith and more.

Is greenwashing prevalent across private markets?

- » Defining greenwashing for private equity: why it is not always easy to agree on what constitutes greenwashing
- » How can investors spot greenwashing from managers?
- » The role of regulation to overcome remaining challenges
- » To what extent can data and analytics be used to prove sustainable impact?

Featuring representatives from Ramboll, EQT & General Atlantic and more.
