From our conference producer

Thanks for joining us in celebrating the 10th annual PDI Europe Summit on 9-11 May. I hope you enjoyed the actionable insight and unlimited networking opportunities across the three days. Over 400 attendees joined us across 32 plenary sessions, and we successfully reconnected 100+ institutional investors with fund managers and regional private debt leaders.

As private debt continues to create a new growth trajectory, Private Debt Investor's event series is here to provide an unrivalled platform for regional allocators and global institutional investors to connect with the brightest minds, share diversified insights, and discover new opportunities together.

Once again, I want to share my sincere gratitude for your participation and involvement in creating a memorable PDI Europe Summit.

We hope to welcome you to our upcoming event in Munich.

Best,

Hannah Ogunlowo

Key highlights from the Summit

"Some strategies are shifting away from the bank and bond markets to private debt - a convenient development given one panellist's observation that the asset class needed to diversify away from corporate risk in the current environment."

Loan note highlights from PDI Europe Summit

"Private debt has been a strong performer in our portfolio."

Private debt must retain strong performance through downturn

Sanjay Mistry, head of alternative credit, Pension Protection Fund

"Private markets have come back and the one that's come back quickest is private debt."

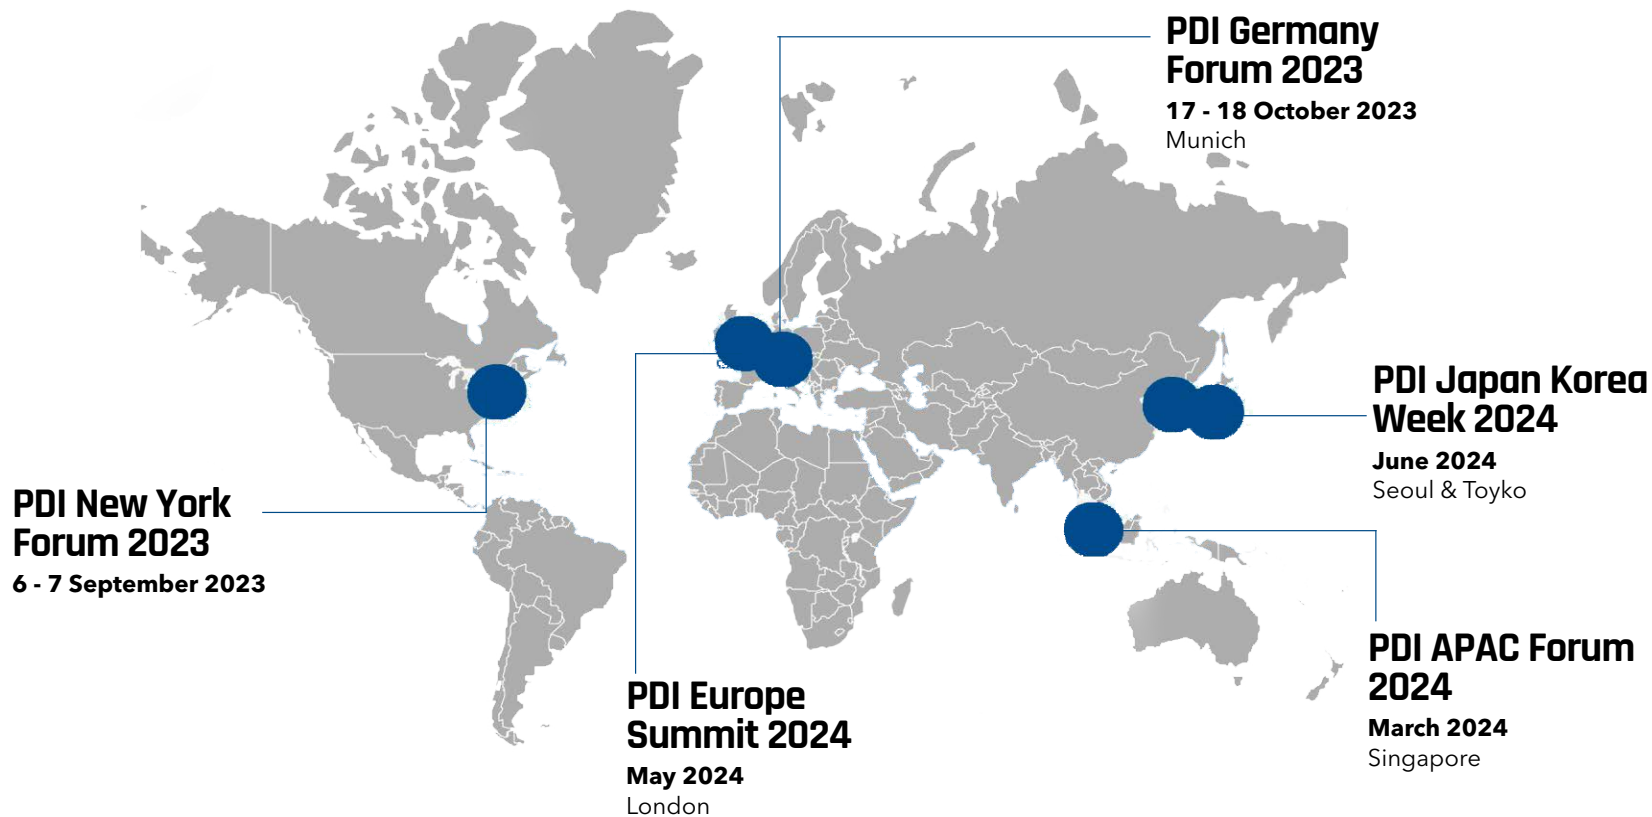

Returns strong, but a lack of deals

Richard von Gusovius, co-head of global private credit, Campbell Lutyens
